PIEDRAS NEGRAS EVACUATED

American Troops Will Defend International Bridges to Keep Them Open

Washington advices state that orders that no American troops are to be sent into Mexican territory at Piedras Negras without specific instructions from Washington went from the war department Wednesday to Brig. Gen. Bliss, commanding the United States border forces.

Full advices have been received from Gen. Bliss and Consul Blocker concerning the critical situation existing at Piedras Negras, as a result of the practical evacuation by the constitutionalists before the advancing federals, but the Washington administration is confident that there will be no developments warranting departure from the settled policy of non intervention.

As a result of conferences between Consul Blocker and Major Caldwell, commanding the American troops at Eagle Pass, Texas, constitutionalist officers at Piedras Negras have arranged that the constitutionalists will not attempt to destroy either of the international bridges.

Instructions to General Bliss would not operate to prevent the American troops from returning fire directed upon them from the Mexican side, such as might be incident to the use of force to defend the bridges to keep them open.

This sum represents the state's share of the revenue derived from the United States forest reserve in reasonable doubt, which was granted the state, for the fiscal year ending by the court. June 1, 1913. The table of proportions of the sums is as follows:

Chiricahua reserve 1,176 Coronado reserve..... 3,808 Crook reserve. 4,848 Dixie reserve 1,170 Kaibab reserve 1,813 Prescott reserve..... Sitgreaves reserve Zuni reserve......
